

One planet-sized food chain

All the creatures of the earth depend on plants or on each other for their food. Everything in the world is connected. Including people.

The animals are looking for their food.
Can you join each animal with its dinner?
Be careful. Some might have more than one thing to eat. And some are eaten by more than one animal.

Every food chain is linked with others. It is very complex. Animals from one habitat will feed off another. In this way the whole earth is linked in one huge web. Humans are part of it.
