

Make the world a happier place.

You can do as Bahá'u'lláh wishes, just by being friendly and greeting people when you see them. You could try this with children at school. You could smile and say hello to children you don't usually play with. See if they smile back.

Each time you do this you could colour one of the balloons on the opposite page.

When they are all brightly coloured in, you could colour the world, because you will have made it a happier place.
