

One World Family

In Vanuatu

How would you like to come to school one morning and find half the roof missing?

This is what happened recently to a small Bahá'í school in the Pacific, when a powerful hurricane struck the island forcing the teachers to run through the rain and the wind to save their precious books from total destruction.

They said to each other, "We need better protection for our books, even if it's expensive." They didn't tell anyone else what they felt.

BUT BAHÁ'U'LLÁH KNEW!

The new chief in the village was a Bahá'í pioneer from Fiji, and he had a dream in which he was told to build a small strong house for the school books. So with the help of Bahá'u'lláh this will soon be a reality.

Bahá'u'lláh said we are all really one family. Do you remember His own words?

Be as one spirit, one soul, leaves of one tree, flowers of one garden, waves of one ocean.
