

Dear Children,

This issue is all about the Covenant. Please take out the centre pages. One is a poster for your wall. The other is for you to cut up and make into your own little book.

This little 'Book of the Covenant' is for you to make your own - colour it in and carry it in your pocket. It has photos of 'Abdu'l-Bahá and Shoghi Effendi, so look after it!

There are other pages for you to colour in too - you could cut them out and stick them on the wall as well.

Please send me your stories and news. They will all be printed in the magazine.

With love to you all,

Maggie

Send to:

Maggie Manvell, 25, Lower Breakish, Isle of Skye, Scotland. IV42 8QA

For Parents and Teachers,

I am planning to include some extra pages in Dayspring in the form of lesson notes for children's classes, or for parents working with their children at home. This issue begins with the first in a series of five lesson notes for teaching the children about Huqúqu'lláh. The suggested age range is 8 to 12.

These are also available in a book called 'Huqúqu'lláh - the Right of God', published by the Board of Trustees of Huqúqu'lláh in Europe.

It would be really helpful to have feedback about how this is received, and to get ideas for future lesson plans.

With love and best wishes for all your work with the children,

Maggie

